

First 2010 Kudzu Klinik Announcement and Registration

March 20, 9:00AM to 4:00 PM

Steeping Stone Farm, Canton Georgia

Clinician

Gigi Nutter

The Kudzu Klinics are a service offered to members of GDCTA. In the spirit of improving the skills of our members and their horses about four times each year riding instructors and barns donate their time and facilities toward a low key but high quality instructional experience. We are proud to open the 2010 Kudzu Klinik series with a day with Gigi Nutter at Steeping Stone Farm in Canton, Georgia. Having trouble with a specific dressage movement? Are you interested in some tips on improving riding a dressage test? Looking for some tips on improving your position? Gigi has agreed for this Kudzu Klinik to work with up to eight individual riders on whatever you would like to do.

Fees (includes lunch) - $20 GDCTA. $10 Auditors

Clinic Date: March 20, 2010

Time: Begins 9:00 AM Ends 4:00 PM

Closing Date: March 17, 2010. This Kudzu Klinik can accommodate eight riders based on the postmark date on the entry form. Auditors, unlimited.

Clinician: Gigi Nutter is a long time member of GDCTA. In addition to a number of riding accomplishments Gigi is a graduate of the USDF "L" judges program. At Touch N' Go Farm, her home barn, she offers dressage instruction and clinics as well as instruction in stadium jumping. Over the years Gigi has owned and worked with a number of horses and is comfortable with everything from the "old hand" to that promising new green horse in your stable. More information about Gigi and Touch N' Go Farm can be found at:

Steeping Stone Farm owned by Mike and Cindy Bickman will host this event. Facilities include a covered beautiful full-size dressage arena as well as a warm up ring. Some turnout may be available but the barn is full so no stalls will be available.
